During the last months, the Spanish Alliance on Graphene, has come into light as a result of the activities launched by Excellence network GRAPHENET. The association aims to represent the interests of the industrial group of graphene producers and end users in Spain. We will present the good praxis code, agreed by the main Spanish producers, for the labeling of graphene. Acceptance of the code is associated to the membership of graphene producers to the Alliance and will ease the path to the incorporation of graphene in the formulations and industrial processes.

However, the scope of the Alliance is not limited to the industrial partners and academic groups are also welcome, as we aim also to create synergies between both groups and also incorporate the technological centers to the activity in 2D materials.

Information on the latest news on strategical calls will be also delivered.
